

Hello everyone,

PLEASE read the entire message carefully. Reply if necessary and share this information with whomever transports your child. THANKS!

I am hoping that most of our twos are adjusting to coming to school. This Thursday we experienced a loud entrance and then very few tears and a lot more participation and playing. We had a lot of fun. I can assure you that the drop off process gets easier and easier as the year goes on. Please be patient in the meantime so we can continue to get these wonderful little ones comfortable with our classroom.

Our helpers this week are:

Tuesday – Jocelynn

Thursday - Leo

For the next two weeks our projects will focus on apples. We will discuss that they grow on trees and that they come in three colors. We will look at pictures of apples that are red, yellow and green and read books about apples. All the children loved the projects this past week. Plus we always have a coloring sheet available for them. It is never too early to promote fine motor skills. Coloring is a great way to do this. Also stickers and foam stickers. I know as a parent, I always carried crayons with me everywhere we went.

Lastly, if there is a caregiver that would be beneficial to add to this email distribution, PLEASE, let me know.

Have a great weekend!!
